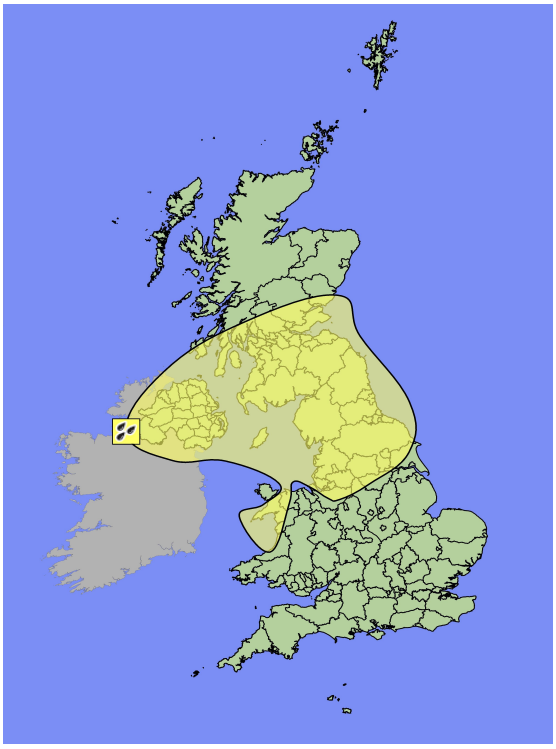
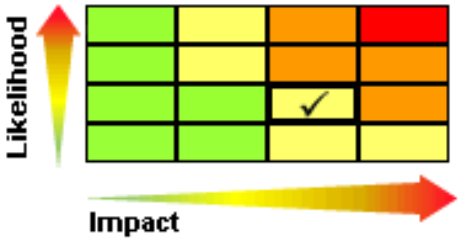
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A series of frontal waves tracking across northern parts of the UK will bring another spell of very wet weather. Persistent rain will clear Northern Ireland quite early on Wednesday morning though will be replaced by heavy showers into the afternoon, these also affecting parts of England and Wales after persistent rain clears. Expect 20-30 mm quite widely during the period and as much as 50-80 mm over parts of the west.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 00:05 on Wed, 18th Jul 2012 until 18:00 on Wed, 18th Jul 2012

Further persistent, sometimes heavy, rain is expected to affect the area, with some heavy, thundery showers too as the rain clears east. The public should be aware that given the saturated conditions this may lead to flooding in some areas.
